

WORLD BOOK DAY
Thursday March 3rd 2011

Once again the children and staff of Newbold School enjoyed coming to school dressed as their favourite book characters. It was good to have a whole day to stress the importance of books and reading as we still needed to address the question from children “Can I please come as my favourite DVD character?”! Of course, sometimes a character can be included in both so this is then double fun for the children.

(The whole school in costume)

(The whole of Years 5 and 6 in their costumes)

Children from our Key Stage 2 classes visited the younger children to sit and read with individuals and groups and there was an enthusiastic buzz in each class as we went around yesterday sharing together.

(Ben Ten and one of the children from “The Pied Piper” reading with Josephine from “The American Girl” serie).

(James Bond reading with Peter Pan and Mr Twit)

As a project for the day we have also been compiling a book of our own written by the children. This is still on-going, but will be placed in the hall foyer for you to see once the children have enjoyed it in their classrooms.

(Mrs Hudson as Farm Hoggett from "The Sheep Pig")
